

Conference on Advances in Microfluidics and Nanofluidics

WMINST has sponsored the Conference on Advances in Microfluidics and Nanofluidics held from January 5-7, 2009. Advances in Microfluidics and Nanofluidics is an international and interdisciplinary conference with special focus on research activities in the Pacific Rim.

The intent of this conference is to bring researchers of different disciplines and nationalities together, which is necessary for the Asian community to advance to the next level. It is also an opportunity to expose Asian research achievements to leaders in the field and for Asian students to interact with them.
